

BITING COLD WILL CONTINUE TUESDAY, IS THE FORECAST

No Immediate Relief in View for State, Says the Weatherman

MERCURY NOSE-DIVES

One-Inch Snowfall Adds To Hazards for Motorists,
Pedestrians

With no immediate relief in view, Pennsylvania's horizon remained bleak today as the biting cold indicated it would continue the rest of the day and tomorrow.

After slowly rising to 18 degrees above zero, the mercury in the western sector took another nosedive and hovered around 10 degrees below zero last night and early this morning.

Temperatures will not be as severe as those of Thursday and Friday, it was reported, with a rise from 10 to 15 degrees above zero expected.

Snow flurries interspersed with some sunshine was predicted by the forecasters, who foresaw generally

Continued on Page Four

Pneumonia Causes Death For Mrs. Howard Amole

EDGELY, Jan. 27—A woman who came to this village from Lambertville, N. J., 17 years ago, died yesterday at her residence here. The deceased is Mary Hogan Amole, wife of Howard Amole. Death was due to pneumonia.

Survivors include her husband, and four daughters, Misses Margaret, Mary and Alice Amole, Edgely; and Mrs. Thomas Derham, Hollywood, Pa.

The deceased was a communicant of St. Mark's R. C. Church, Bristol.

The funeral will be held Wednesday with High Mass of Requiem at St. Mark's Church, Bristol, at 10 a. m. Burial will be made in Bristol Cemetery.

Heart Attack Fatal To Wm. Deuschle, Croydon

CROYDON, Jan. 27—William Deuschle, husband of the late Maude Dyne Deuschle, died Saturday at his residence here; death occurring suddenly of a heart attack. He was 68 years of age.

The late Croydonite is survived by one son, William, Jr., Croydon; and one sister, who resides in Hatfield.

The Rev. Frederick Buckhalter, pastor of United Presbyterian Church, West Philadelphia, a nephew of the deceased, will officiate at the funeral service tomorrow at two p. m. from the funeral home of H. S. Rue Estate, 314 Cedar street, Bristol. Burial will be made in Greenmount Cemetery, Philadelphia.

Miss Angeline D'Amico and Alexander Puglia Are Wed

The wedding of Miss Angeline D'Amico, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chiconi, 1620 Trenton avenue, and Alexander Puglia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Puglia, Byberry Road, Cornwells, took place yesterday at 2.15 p. m., at Pentecost Church, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Puglia was attended by Miss Mary Passerelli, Tacony, as bridesmaid; and Miss Marie Rizzo, Tacony, as maid of honor. Vincent Steffoni, Pond street, was best man. The marriage rite was performed by Rev. Benjamin Cox, pastor of the church.

The bride's costume was of white satin, fashioned on long graceful lines. An edging of satin flowers defined the neck line which was round.

The sleeves of lace, puffed to the elbows; and the train was formed by the skirt. Her veil of tulle fell from a coronet effect, arranged with valley lilies. She carried white roses.

The maid of honor, and bridesmaid, wore costumes made similarly. That of the former, was of blue silk crepe, with pink turban and pink slippers, that of the latter, peach, with green turban and slippers. Both carried carnations.

A reunion and celebration at Beneficial Hall, Franklin street, followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Puglia then left for Washington, D. C. They will reside on Newport Road, West Bristol.

Preceding the departure of the group for the ceremony a dinner was tendered the couple at the home of the bride's parents. Covers were laid for 50 guests from Philadelphia, Tacony, Bristol, Pa., and Trenton, N. J.

MOTORIST HURT

MORRISVILLE, Jan. 27—A young Morrisville woman, Miss Isabelle Rainear, South Pennsylvania avenue, was injured yesterday, when the automobile in which she was riding, skidded and struck a pole, here. She is being treated in Mercer Hospital for injuries to her pelvis, and lacerations of the forehead.

TIDES AT BRISTOL

High water 4.58 a. m., 5.25 p. m.
Low water 12.42 p. m.

Five Injured at Yardley In Coasting Accidents

YARDLEY, Jan. 27—Five coasting accidents occurred here over the weekend.

Earl Worthington, 17, senior in the Yardley high school, ran into the automobile of Dr. H. Linn Bassett, while coasting on College avenue. Worthington's sled hit the Bassett car and then the youth was bounced off and went through the fence of the Oliver W. Wharton property. He suffered cuts and bruises about the face and body. He is confined to his home.

Leon Kerry, 15, high school senior, while coasting at the Yardley Country Club, went into an open ditch. He knocked three of his teeth into the upper jaw and split his jaw bone. He was treated by a Langhorne dentist.

Miss Lillian Groner, teacher in first grade public school, coasted through a hedge at the Country Club, scratching her face considerably.

Miss Marion Smith and Miss Margaret Benner were also injured while coasting on the Golf Course.

SPECIAL POLL SHOWS BIG ANTI-NEW DEAL VOTE

Ten States Support Administration's Policies and 38 Others Oppose

ANALYSIS OF THE VOTE

A supplementary New Deal poll conducted by The Literary Digest among its own subscribers indicates only a fractional percentage difference in voting against the Administration's acts and policies as compared with the final returns of the recent nationwide poll, according to returns published in the current issue of the magazine.

A total of 229,248 Literary Digest subscribers are reported balloting in the special referendum of which 84,969 are tallied voting "yes" and 144,279 are shown voting "no" in answer to the question: "Do you now approve the acts and policies of the Roosevelt 'New Deal' to date?"

The percentage of the vote against the New Deal in the subscribers' poll is 62.94 which compares with a final negative percentage of 62.66 in the recent 10,000,000-ballot general poll.

Only ten States show a majority vote in support of the Administration's policies in the subscribers' poll while the other thirty-eight States cast adverse majorities. In the recent main referendum of the magazine, twelve States voted in support of the New Deal, Kentucky and Virginia changing from the affirmative to the negative side of the New Deal in the subscribers' poll.

All States show a stronger vote against the New Deal in the subscribers' poll than they did in the general poll with the exception of Colorado, Michigan, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin which indicate increased State percentages in favor of the New Deal.

In the subscribers' poll New England evidences the heaviest vote

Continued on Page Two

Anna May Tosti Is Guest Of Honor at Affair Here

Miss Anna May Tosti, 342 Monroe street, was the guest of honor at a party Saturday evening, given by her brother, Edward Tosti, in honor of her 21st birthday. The evening was spent playing games and dancing. In one corner of the room in front of the radio was a large white sheet on which were fastened life size silhouettes of members of a dance orchestra and their instruments. With the aid of a spot light and the radio playing dance tunes, it presented the effect of an orchestra in the room. Refreshments were served. Miss Tosti received many beautiful gifts. Favors were balloons and paper hats.

Those attending: Misses Nellie Pasullo Eva Puccio, Rose DiFelice, Angeline Lanza, Palma Biocchi, Anne Ciotto, Mabel Monochi, Josephine Gentilucci, Jennie Pieo, Mary Lanza, Anne Tulio, Marie Cauci, Laura Bianchini, Edith DiMidio, Anna Puccio, Millie Castor, Rose Fiorvanti, Daisy Salustio, Eva Cauci.

Messrs. Joseph Tulio, Ralph Narciss, Arthur Gilardi, Nicholas DiLissio, John DiLissio, Albert Rago, Renzo Giratti, Augustine Passanante, Bert Passanante, John DiFelice, Eugene Marozzi, Mario Marozzi, Michael Cauci, Leo Quici, Natale Nepl, Eugene Clotti, Louis Pizzullo, Nicholas DiRenzo, B. Petrone.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tosti, Mr. and Mrs. Emidio Tosti, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Tosti, Bristol.

Joseph DiMidio, Ardmore; Dominick Juno, Bridgetown, Conn.; Jack DiRenzo, Louis Costella, Anthony Leone, Albert Manes, Burlington, N. J.; Amy Stachio, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Daniels, and daughter Loretta, Beverly, N. J.; Miss Marion Fairnee and Edward and Theodore Tosti, Baltimore, Md.

During the evening, Edward and Theodore Tosti presented their sister, Mrs. Ernest Daniels, with a table model radio, a gift for her birthday which occurred last week.

POSTPONE SUPPER

The sauer kraut supper scheduled to be given January 30th in the chapel of St. Paul's Church, Edgely, has been indefinitely postponed.

MORE RESIGNATIONS

(New York American, January 25, 1936)

Not the Pat Harrisons and the Joe Robinsons in the Senate, nor Representatives like the Speaker, Mr. Byrns, or Mr. Doughton, will ever part with the Administration on a question of principle.

And there are many like them — who exist only for reelection, and the patronage on which they rely to make it certain.

We shall NEVER read of their retirement from office because they cannot support measures which are unsound and policies which spell disaster to the country and the people.

There are, however, some men who have been connected with the Administration who still put PRINCIPLE ABOVE OFFICE and prefer to resign rather than to compromise their conscience and integrity.

* * *

Two of these left the public service last week — T. Jefferson Coolidge of Boston, Under-Secretary of the Treasury, and L. W. Robert, Jr., of Atlanta, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

Despite the civil terms in which their resignations were conveyed and the studied cordiality of the President's letters, addressed respectively "My Dear Jeff" and "My Dear Chip," in the President's best schoolboy manner, it is manifest that these officials, who have made good records, have got their fill of New Deal nonsense and folly, and can stand it no longer.

They will NOT be "yes" men!

As Treasury officials, they refuse to be parties to the looting of the Treasury and the dissipation of the nation's resources on projects that are utterly without pretense of being legitimate measures of a sober and responsible government.

* * *

Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Robert now take their place with Lewis W. Douglas, former Director of the Budget; Dean Acheson, the former Under-Secretary of the Treasury; O. M. W. Sprague, former fiscal adviser to the Treasury; James P. Warburg, also financial advisor to the government; George N. Peek, agricultural specialist, not to mention many others who have resigned to save their self-respect and their reputations.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., is left — the President will still have someone to say "yes."

These resignations are disquieting to the people.

It is increasingly manifest that the slap-dash, hit or miss, carefree and irresponsible way in which the grave concerns of the Governor are being administered must sooner or later — end!

How it will end—in what form of disaster—time will tell.

* * *

Perhaps the departure, one by one, of the men of character and known ability will bring matters to a head, as soon as anything can.

Perhaps their resignation is the only contribution that men of judgment can now make to the ill-starred and tottering Raw Deal.

CHILDHOOD OF EDWARD VIII STRUCK DOWN VERY EARLY

Change Came With Death of Edward VII; Purple and Ermine Era Came

HE MISSED FREEDOM

(Herewith is the fourth installment of the series by James Francis I. N. S. Staff Correspondent (Copyright, 1936, by I. N. S.))

Death, the infallible marksman, did more than snuff out the gentle flame that had guided Edward VII. through a liberal reign. It struck down the childhood of the royal heir, at a single impact wiping it out as completely as though it never had been. Quite before he knew it, the Shetland pony age had touched him briefly and passed on by.

Perhaps it is significant, in the light of later developments, that his imperious destiny said he had to be a man right away, with the understanding that he might go back and be a boy again any time this fitted in with the programme of a great empire. Except to the family and intimates, he was "David". He now was the "Edward P" that the world came to know and esteem. He must have dignity, savoir faire and the intangible something called "presence," in much the same painful way that the average boy has measles.

The purple and ermine era, in other words, had definitely set in for the little Prince and at the coronation of his father, George V., he was appropriately earnest and grave. The royal children occupied the second carriage behind the King and Queen, with "David" and Princess Mary rigidly riding in the front seat, heads high, eyes childishly stern.

This greatly amused "Bertie," Henry and George, riding in the seat behind, David and Mary looked "so funny."

They tittered openly, nudging each other with infantile glee. Still only disapproving silence from the seat in front, so they tried a new tack. Some-

Continued on Page Four

FIRE GUTS ST. MARY'S HALL; 80 LED FROM BLDG.

Blaze Started in Pile of Rubbish in Basement; Entire Fire Department Out

LOSS GIVEN AT $4500

BURLINGTON, N. J., Jan. 27—Sixty girls and 20 teachers fled to safety when historic St. Mary's Hall, an Episcopal boarding school for girls, was damaged by fire yesterday afternoon. The loss is estimated at $4500.

The structure in which the fire did so much harm was Doane Annex, which adjoins Scarborough Hall, the oldest building on the premises. This will be a century old next year. The buildings are all connected.

The blaze was first discovered in

Continued on Page Three

Fireman Answers Call For Blaze To Own House

BURLINGTON, N. J., Jan. 27—A member of the Burlington Volunteer Fire Department, last evening, answered an alarm of fire and upon arrival at the scene found that the blaze was at his own home.

Frank Lovenduski, Bordentown Rd., last night at about 6.45 sat talking with his fellow firemen in the Neptune Fire Station, when the alarm sounded. Lovenduski jumped on the apparatus with the other firemen and sped to the blaze, which he found was at his own home.

Lovenduski ran into the house in search of the members of his family. "Jake" Rado, also a member of the Neptune Company, was attracted by cries of Mrs. Lovenduski as the woman standing across the street cried: "Get my child, save my child!" Rado went to the second floor and carried four year old, Frank, Jr., to safety. The youngster was in a smoke-filled room.

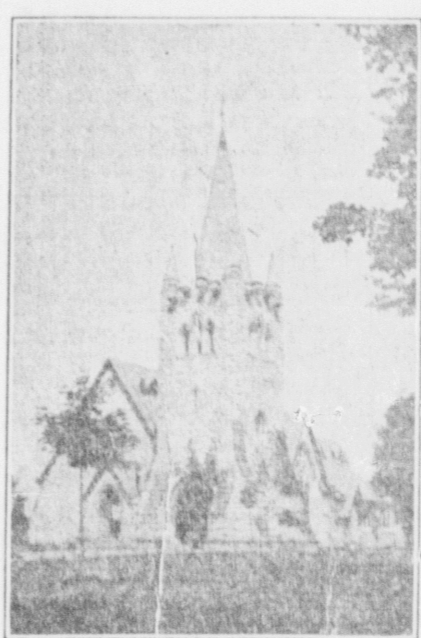

The blaze was due to an overheated furnace. Most of the damage was due to smoke.

Rado is well known in Bristol, having played baseball here with the Hibernians.

CUTS ANKLE

When a piece of wood slipped as he was trying out a new axe yesterday, George Clapham, West Bristol, sustained an injury to his ankle. Four stitches were taken at Harriman Hospital.

Marks Charter Anniversary

Eddington Presbyterian Church

the congregation of which gathered last evening for a unique service marking the 50th year since the charter was granted.

MARK 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF CHARTER GRANTING

Unique Service Conducted in Eddington Presbyterian Church

"MEMORIES OF 1886"

EDDINGTON, Jan. 27—In what was termed one of the most unique services in America, the Eddington Presbyterian Church last night observed the 50th anniversary of the granting of the charter. A feature of the service was the "Memories of 1886" in which two men who took part in the organizing work, told of events leading up to the building of the present structure. The three survivors are: Messrs. William Hastie Smith, Jr., Richard L. Austin, and Harry W. Moore.

Mr. Moore told how the church grew out of the Bensalem Presbyterian Church, which had been founded two centuries ago by Dr. Tennent, founder of the Famous Log College, which ultimately resulted in the founding of Princeton University. Mr. Moore told of how members of the church residing in the Bridgewater section had built a small chapel and at last, finding the structure too small, decided to construct a new church building.

More than $10,000 was raised for the church. The application for a charter was made on December 23, 1885, by Charles S. Vandegrift, Jr., Thomas B. Simons, Esmonde H. Austin, Dr. Joseph H. Schenck and Harry W. Moore. The charter was granted on January 25, 1886, by Harman Yerkes, president judge of the Bucks County Court, the board of trustees being made up of the following: William H. Smith, Jr., Louis B. Henry, Thomas B. Simons, Charles S. Vandegrift, Jr., Alexander Christy, Thomas Mooney, Richard L. Austin and Harry W. Moore.

The charter is on display at the church, a huge easel being provided for the purpose. Mr. Moore told of how, after the church had been nearly completed, a man, Mr. Whelan by name, drove by, and attracted by the beauty of the building, stopped and asked if the congregation had purchased a bell. He was informed that a bell had not yet been obtained. He made a present of a bell, which is still doing service, with the remark that "these Presbyterians, they certainly are improving in their architecture."

The organ was given by Mrs. William Hastie Smith, Jr.

During the service the pastor, the Rev. Arthur D. Sargis, conducted a responsive reading of the entire charter, copies of which were supplied to every one present. In a vivid and moving address in which he traced the history of the church, he declared a rededication of the church to the future work it is called upon to perform.

"We now have the building and the congregation," he said, "and will go forward into the future to serve as faithfully as these men and women served in the past." He announced that during this entire year of jubilee the text for the year is to be from Exodus 28:36, "Holiness to the Lord."

Mr. Austin in a brief address told of the need which resulted in founding the church organization, and of the enthusiasm of the members of the congregation in raising the necessary

Continued on Page Three

C. D. of A. Has Card Party; Mrs. Barnfield in Charge

The Catholic Daughters of America held a card party Saturday evening in the Knights of Columbus home, with Mrs. Eli Barnfield as chairman. There were 21 tables of players arranged. Prizes were given and refreshments served.

Those having high scores in "500": Mrs. Joseph Wolfard, 4340; M. Gallagher, 4290; Mrs. Thomas Burns, 4060; Miss Esther Boyle, 3550; Miss A. Boyle, 3150.

Pinochle: Helen Goodspeed, 811; M. McCurry, 795; Mrs. M. Obrecht, 778; Mrs. E. Hetherington, 763; J. Devine, 768.

LATEST NEWS - - - Received by International News Service Leased Wires.

Corporate Net Income Tax Act Valid

Philadelphia, Jan. 27—Constitutionality of the Corporate Net Income Tax Act, passed by the last session of the Pennsylvania Legislature to raise between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 for the use of unemployed relief, was upheld today by the State Supreme Court.

The high tribunal's decision was announced by Chief Justice John W. Kephart. Cost of the suit in which the Supreme Court took original jurisdiction in order to affect an early final decree was placed on the plaintiff, Turco Paint & Varnish Co.

The so-called 6% Corporation Net Income Tax levy, a tax on the net income of corporations accruing yearly beginning during the calendar year of 1935, and is in addition to own existing taxes imposed upon corporations.

John T. Connelly, a former Philadelphia solicitor, as counsel for the Delaware concern, attacked the act on three grounds. He said the measure lacked constitutional uniformity, and instead of being an excise tax was a property tax. He declared there was a law of validity in the measure because of "wholesale exemptions" from its provision, which he declared was illegal because the general assembly has no power to exempt such corporations, as was done.

Attorney General Charles A. Margiotti, on behalf of the Department of Revenue, told the high tribunal:

"This act is to extend for a period of two years and will amount to about $26,000,000 a year. The Department of Revenue has received about $2,000,000 so far. It is their contention that the act is constitutional and that it is a tax on the privilege of doing business in Pennsylvania by corporations and based on their net income."

HELD IN SHOOTING, TRIES SUICIDE LEAP

Mrs. Emma Croman, Quaker-town, is Frustrated by Three Nurses

WARRANT IS SERVED

QUAKERTOWN, Jan. 27—Mrs. Emma Croman, 49-year-old widow, of this place, accused of shooting Raymond Lewis, 38, Thursday, attempted to commit suicide yesterday afternoon by trying to leap from a second-story balcony of the Quakertown Hospital. Hospital nurses frustrated her attempt and pulled her into a window as she was about to leap.

Mrs. Croman went to Lewis' shop and while sitting on a couch is said to have shot him. During the scuffle

Continued on Page Three

Is Celebrant of 77th Birthday Anniversary

Edward Chamberlain, 904 Jefferson avenue, spent Sunday celebrating his 77th birthday.

A family dinner was held. Attendees were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mulhearn and daughter Mary, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kervick, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dugan and children, Daniel, Jr., and Theresa, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Scheffey, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Gannon and son, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Crosby, John Kervick, Miss Dorothy McLean and George McLean, William and Harry Chamberlain, Miss Mary Hager and Francis Hager, Misses Rosemary Ward and Rosemary Scheffey, Bristol; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allen, Bordentown, N. J.; and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Chamberlain and daughter, June, Hulmeville.

Phyllis Werner Hostess At a "Monopoly" Party

Miss Phyllis Werner was hostess at a "Monopoly" party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Werner, Fillmore street, Saturday evening.

Her guests were inclusive of the Misses Charlotte Rathke, Irene and Violet Ruth Ranck, Anita Zug, Marion and Dorothy Mulholland, Messrs. Wilbur Van Lenten, Joseph Kallenbach, Harley Davies, William Barrett, Howard Baker, Wayne Mulholland and Oscar Booz.

Winners were: Dorothy Mulholland, Howard Baker and William Barrett. Dancing was enjoyed and refreshments served.

DR. LE COMPTE ILL

Dr. William C. LeCompte was operated on for appendicitis in the Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia, Saturday.

EIGHT SCHOOLS IN COUNTY PLACED ON ACCREDITED LIST

Middle States Association of Colleges Give Their Approval

BRISTOL H. S. IS NAMED

List Shows Increase of 23
Accredited Schools
Over Last Year

The Commission Secondary Schools of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools has accredited 673 public and private secondary schools for 1936 on the basis of their ability to prepare students adequately for college work.

The list, as announced today by Dr. E. D. Grizzell, chairman of the commission and professor of secondary education at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, reveals an increase of 260 as compared with the first accredited list compiled by the commission in 1928.

In addition to secondary schools in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia, several schools in the Panama Canal Zone and one in Switzerland are included.

"All public or private secondary

Continued on Page Three

WPA Workers Loosen Rocks As Beautification Project

POTTSVILLE, Jan. 27—WPA officials are threatening to arrest motorists in Schuylkill county for driving through groups of road workers.

Men have been crowded so thickly on the roads for some of these projects sponsored by the State Highway Department that the only way motorists could avoid this difficulty would be to leave the highways altogether and drive through the fields.

The Big Brain back of the roadwork in this county has conceived the idea of loosening rocks on the sides of mountain roads to "beautify" the landscape, the idea being to plant the loose spaces with shrubbery.

Now the loose rocks and boulders create a motoring menace and have been responsible for minor landslides.

Croydon Firemen Will Conduct Dance Tonight

Tonight at the fire house the Croydon firemen will again offer to the people, both young and old, one of those evenings of dancing and amusement which have become very popular in Croydon.

The entertainment committee is continuing these dances by popular request and while a good time is offered at a minimum charge of admission, the fire company is also benefiting.

A good program has been arranged for tonight, including novelty dances, and whether you dance or not a good time is assured to all.

Part of a Dixie Belle Taken By Shirley Temple

When a little girl and her happiness are involved, the Blue and Gray are all friends—and no foes—as Shirley Temple's "The Littlest Rebel," proves. The picture, adapted from that immortal play of the Civil War, opens tonight at the Grand Theatre, under the Fox banner.

As the tiniest Confederate in Virginia, the dimpled darling of the screen plays her first big dramatic role in "The Littlest Rebel."

John Boles and Karen Morley are her parents. Separated by the War, they are reunited just before Miss Morley succumbs to the rigors. Boles, though he fears apprehension as a spy, undertakes to deliver the child to her aunt in Richmond.

He is trapped by a Yankee officer, Jack Holt. But Holt, surrenders to Shirley's charms, and tries to help them through the line. When their plot fails, both Holt and Boles are in hot water. How the little girl uses her charms on the President of the Union to save her daddy and her dearest friend, is revealed in the tender dramatic climax of "The Littlest Rebel."

Two Dogs Maim and Kill Poultry Valued at $900

YARDLEY, Jan. 27—State men are expected to arrive here today to wage war on all unlicensed dogs running at large.

The State's campaign against dogs is the result of the killing and maiming of ducks and geese valued at $900 on the game farm of William J. Mackensen, one mile south of here.

Two dogs broke into the poultry pens on the Mackensen farm, after climbing a four-foot fence. The two dogs made vicious attacks on the ducks and geese, many of them of expensive varieties and used for breeding purposes.

The attack occurred during a short absence of employees of the place, who found the dogs at their slaughter upon their return. Both dogs were instantly shot and the state notified.

The Bristol Courier

Established 1910

Published Every Evening (Except Sunday) at Beaver and Garden Sts., Bristol, Pa., Bell Phone 846.
Only Daily Paper in Lower Bucks County

BRISTOL PRINTING COMPANY

Owner and Publisher: Serrill D. Dettleson, Managing Editor: Ellis E. Ratcliffe, Secretary.
Subscription Price per Year, in advance, $2.00; Six Months, $1.00; Three Months, 75c.
The Courier is delivered by carrier in Bristol, Edgely, Tullytown, Bridgewater, Croydon, Andalusia, West Bristol, Hummelville, Bath Addition, Newportville and Torresdale Manor for six cents a week.

JOB PRINTING

The Courier has the most complete commercial printing department in Bucks County. Work of any description promptly and satisfactorily done.

Entered as Second Class Mail Matter at the Post Office at Bristol, Pa.

International News Service has the exclusive rights to use for republication in any form all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper. It is also exclusively entitled to use for republication all the local or unfiled news published herein.

MONDAY, JANUARY 27, 1936

BUY AT HOME

According to stories in Philadelphia newspapers a number of residents of that city have been tricked into buying cheaply-framed colored snapshot enlargements at fancy prices.

A warning is issued by the Better Business Bureau of that city and it should be read by residents of other cities and towns, as well.

Interviews with several residents of Philadelphia are cited to show how the smooth-tongued salesman worked.

This warning is just as necessary in Bristol and surrounding area as it is in Philadelphia. Often-times men with good sales talks come here and sell inferior goods at high prices and they are eagerly purchased by Bristol residents. The safest way is to make your purchases of men and firms established in your own community. Those whom you have known and who are located right here and with whom you are in daily contact, are the ones worthy of your trade and it is with them you should deal. If there are complaints they will gladly adjust any differences. Don't buy of outside solicitors. Deal in your own community with the people you know and you won't be tricked.

A DEMOCRATIC KING

To have been known in his own and other countries as a democratic ruler is a distinction that seldom is recorded in the history of a king. It will be set forth and emphasized in narratives of the life of King George of England.

King George's early training in the naval service had a large influence, no doubt, in developing the late king's democratic traits. But he possessed the traits to be developed. Apparently they are a heritage of sons of Windsor. King Edward, so far as his own personal qualities were concerned, probably could have been as democratic a ruler as King George if conditions in England had been during his time what they were in King George's reign. England's new king, if one may judge by his habits, as the Prince of Wales, will be an even more democratic ruler than his father. The changing times will permit him to exercise, in still greater degree than so far has been possible, the democratic tastes of the Windsors.

While in the naval service, through the various grades from cadet to commander, and in the years from 1892, when he became the heir apparent, until 1910, when he ascended the throne upon the death of his father, George traveled over more of the British Empire than any other heir of Britain's crown ever had before. Perhaps it was this experience in other parts of the empire, coupled no doubt with habits acquired at sea, which made him feel that the responsibilities of the ruler of the British Empire pertained to more important things than royal etiquette.

Champion Braddock's handler in his coming fights is to be Jack Johnson. Some feel it would be even better if Braddock were Johnson.

A cable from Rome has Il Duce and his cabinet seeing eye to eye, and a commentator suggests that it's done with a mirror.

"The rabbit provides the fur for 86 different kinds of fur coats"—trade item. That would be one of the larger type of rabbits.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

By Courier Staff Member

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol, July 16, 1874. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

Barclay Jones, who some years past ran the Newportville grist-mill, until he formed a co-partnership with Israel Allen, (formerly one of our Bristol store-keepers, where Morton A. Walmaley now occupies, and went into the milling business on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, from whence he removed to run a mill at Norfolk, Nebraska) was very badly injured by a fall from the second story of his mill, breaking both legs and several ribs. The leg was so badly lacerated that amputation was considered necessary; while, at the same time, his recovery is reported as almost hopeless. Mr. Jones left this vicinity with the well-deserved respect of all who knew him, while his many friends will look with much anxiety for hopeful tidings of his rescue from death.

Three men employed on Landreth's farm at Bloomsdale, made arrangements last Sunday evening to rob the house of William S. Minster, with whom they were boarding. The plan was overheard by another of the laborers, who disclosed it to the family. On looking under the beds several large bundles of clothing were found stowed away in readiness for a hasty departure at midnight. The would-be thieves were allowed five minutes in which to leave, but in less than that time they were going up the railroad on a dead run.

Yesterday evening, Ellis Lawrence, a little daughter of Capt. Maurice Lawrence, narrowly escaped drowning. She was playing on Myer's dock with one of her companions, when he gave her a push and she fell into the water, striking her neck on a row boat. A gentleman from Burlington, who happened to be near, came to her assistance and rescued her from death.

"Universal Peace Union" meeting will be held in Friends' Meeting-house, Market street, Bristol, on First-day, 19th inst., at 3 o'clock p. m. Several speakers are expected to be present, among them, Alfred H. Love, of the Society.

A boatman, to whom J. W. Closson refused to furnish a drink a few evenings since, hurled a brick through the window demolishing the ice pitcher and narrowly missing the proprietor. Closson made for him with a double-barreled gun, but failed to hit him.

John Roberts has opened and fitted up a picnic ground at his farm recently purchased of Joseph Canby, near Eddington. This property is beautifully located, and will make a charming place for summer excursions.

George W. Barker, superintendent of the New York Division of the P. R. R., has instructed all engineers to have the screens of their engines in good order, and properly placed while passing through the Borough of Bristol. The recent fires caused by the escape of sparks from passing engines, prompted the issuing of this order.

The bridge at Hutchinson's meadows, on the Beaver Dam road, is in a very dilapidated condition. A large portion of the wall has fallen, rendering travel over it unsafe. We understand the matter has been brought to the attention of the Street Committee, who will make the needed repairs as speedily as possible. The bridge being on the line between the borough and township, each will bear its proportion of the expense.

WARMINSTER—During the heavy storm of last Saturday evening, a barn belonging to Aaron Cornell, and occupied by Jacob R. Staats, in Northampton township, was struck by lightning and burned to the ground; the wheat and a part of the hay was destroyed. Mr. Staats rescued the stock from the flames, though with much difficulty, as one mule lay prostrate from the effects of the shock. The buildings and crops were insured. Two workmen in the habit of sleeping in the barn, were much effected by the lightning, but have since recovered.

A stated meeting of the Borough Council was held in the town hall on Monday evening, 13th inst. The

"HIGH SCHOOL TRAGEDY"

by MAXINE CANTY

CHAPTER XVII

"Fellow I was talking to didn't know. Her name is Bernice Carter. She lives in San Francisco, he says. . . . In an apartment in the Sunset district, alone apparently. No one there knows much about her. She has been there about three weeks, is very quiet, goes out most every afternoon, but doesn't seem to have a job, has no callers except this Lloyd."

"She must have money. How mysterious!"
"Yeah. Well, don't worry your pretty head about it, Miss Julie. Probably she is some well-to-do young woman who has come here to write or paint or something; he probably met her at the artist's colony in Carmel. I just wanted you to know that we are working on that angle, and I don't want you to be too disillusioned if we find out there is more to it than you think."

Naturally, I worried about it. I knew the Inspector was telling me less than he knew or thought, that there were some possibilities that he wasn't suggesting to me at all. It looked as if he were concentrating on Bruce, as if he wanted to find him guilty. I thought he was probably frank enough in saying that he was telling me in order to prepare me for what might happen. As a matter of fact, I think he was warning me.

"Well," I answered rather sadly, "I can't believe he's the man. But you will find out now whether he is or not. Why do you think he would do it?"

The Inspector hesitated a minute, and he looked away when he spoke. "Little Julie, the world is a queer place. A young man falls in love with a girl during a romantic summer. In the prosaic fall, he finds she is just another girl to him, one he likes and respects but with whom he is not particularly anxious to spend the rest of his life. Then to add to his growing dissatisfaction, he meets another woman who is everything he can desire, summer or fall, or at least so he thinks. He tells the first girl he is through, but she won't believe it. We may even find that she tried to hold him to the engagement. Maybe he came to see her, quarrelled violently with her, and then shot her to be rid of her. People do lots of things that sound mad, from various emotions, such as anger, for instance."

I knew he was trying to make me understand, that he was speaking carefully. I didn't want to believe it, and I rebelled against the thought.

"But, Inspector," I cried, "you are just imagining all that from what I told you and from the fact that he called on a girl three times!"
"From that and also from the fact, Miss Julie, that the girl, Bernice Carter, was with Lloyd in Sacramento the day he tried to phone Constance Sinclair, the day he sent her the yellow roses telling her their wedding plans were cancelled!"

Well, these new developments were startling. After the Inspector had gone on, and after Mother came out, I thought about them all the way home. I felt that Bruce Lloyd had thrown me down. Here I had believed in him, had fought for him, and all the time he had been in love with this blonde. It wasn't that I was actually in love with him myself. It is hard to explain. But he was the ideal of the kind of man I wanted to marry when I did get around to it. I had been disappointed in him when he admitted letting Connie down, but I had still adored him. I had excused him for it by emphasizing to myself the reasonableness and courage of analyzing a marriage before you got into it, of not going through with it unless one were sure of companionship and permanence. They all fitted into my own ideals.

But to have thrown Connie over for another woman was a different thing, and for one who was so mysterious, too. This Bernice may be a beautiful woman, I thought, but she doesn't sound quite nice.

Anyway, I knew why Dad couldn't get away. He had found out the police were hot on Bruce's trail again and had remained in case Lloyd should need him.

But when we got home, Dad was there, talking on the telephone and very much excited. I found out was somewhat wrong. It was a more serious situation than I had thought. Dad had received a letter from Bruce which confirmed all my fears and certainly played right into the Inspector's hands. This was it: San Francisco.

November 12, 193-

Dear Mr. Martin:

I am sorry that circumstances force me to a new decision which I know will cause you some embarrassment. I do not hope to relieve you of that embarrassment very soon. But the fact is that I find it necessary to leave San Francisco for a few days. I cannot say where I am going nor can I give you or business is probably in a foreign country and will detain him for some ten years!"

I was too busy adjusting my own ideas to say anything.

Finally the telephone rang. Dad jumped at it.

"Hello, hello! Yes, this is he. . . . Yes, yes. . . . He did? Why didn't he follow him? . . . I don't blame you. . . . In a blue car with three others? . . . Of course, yes, yes. . . . Let me know at once, won't you?"

This conversation was not very enlightening. During it, Allen had come in and Mother had told him what we already knew. He was awfully excited. When Dad turned away from the telephone, we all anyone else any explanation as to why.

Allen exploded over Bruce: "He'll turn out to be the one who murdered her—the sweetest, kindest, prettiest girl in the world."

I expect to be back in three or four days. I do not know how closely the police are watching me; it may be that I will not get far. In that case, things will look very bad for me, I know. But whether I succeed or not, the next few days will be difficult for you. When I return, if allowed to, of my own free will, you will be cleared.

I am sorry for your angle of this. You and Mrs. Martin have been most kind to me. You have shown faith in me. Try to keep that faith a little longer. I assure you I am innocent and I do this because of necessity.

Sincerely yours,

BRUCE LLOYD.

That knocked the pins right out from under all of us, so to speak. I don't know which of us three—Dad, Mother, or myself—felt the worst. I guess it was Dad, for Mother was inclined to retain a blind faith in the "boy" and I was more or less prepared for something to happen. Dad was a hard-headed lawyer who had given his own word for the man's good faith, and he certainly had been let down, even taking the letter at its face value.

He was talking to the Inspector, it turned out, when we came in. Of course, he repeated the letter to him immediately. O'Brien was getting to work at once. Dad sat around waiting for the telephone to ring.

"I can't believe he'd run away," Mother repeated over and over. "You will find it is just as he says. He has to go for some reason. When his business is completed, he will come back."

"No doubt," said Dad sarcastically. The only trouble is that his just looked at him. He ran his hand over his head and slumped into his chair.

O'Brien had a report from San Francisco. The man who was supposed to be shadowing Bruce, called him up to tell him he had seen Bruce drive out of town, taking the ferry to Sausalito.

"Where was he?"

"He was phoning from a booth at the ferry slip for further instructions while Bruce drove on the boat and sailed away."

"How dumb!"

O'Brien is cussing a blue streak. I'm afraid the fellow is in line for walking a beat again. Anyway, O'Brien has telephoned ahead to watch all roads leading north. Of course, they may be picked up when they leave the boat at Sausalito."

"They?" questioned Allen.

"He is accompanied by another man and two women."

"One of them a blonde," I whispered to myself.

Dad looked at me quickly, but he didn't take me up on it then.

"They are traveling in a blue sedan, evidently trying to make the Canadian border. Seems strange they would go so far to get out of the country when it is so much shorter to Mexico. They must have some good reason."

Allen was flushed, excited, nervously pacing up and down.

"There, you see!" he exclaimed, "I've been right about him all along. He's a bounder, a traitor! You'll see. He'll turn out to be the one who murdered her—the sweetest, kindest, prettiest girl in all the world!"

The last words were a shriek. As he yelled them at us, Allen ran from the room, tears coursing down his cheeks.

"Well!" ejaculated Dad.

(To Be Continued)

Copyright, 1935, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

PRIZE WINNING CARTOON

The cartoon by E. Simms Campbell which won the $1,000 prize offered by King Features Syndicate for a cartoon character best symbolizing the "Tax Collector." Mr. Campbell, a New Yorker and well known as a contributor to magazines, won over 10,000 entries drawn by professional and amateur artists from all parts of the country.

committee recommended a reconsideration of the resolution placing a gas lamp at the corner of Pond and Washington streets. . . . The Resolution prohibiting fast driving within the borough limits, was amended, by fixing the penalty at $5 instead of $1. . . . Emmor Conly, agent of S. P. C. A., asked permission to erect a watering-trough for horses on Bath street, at street pump of Wm. Hawk and John Wright, which was referred to Street Committee, with power to act. . . .

The School Board propose fencing the property of the borough on Mulberry street this season, provided the borough puts up a fence on Pond street. This is an improvement that is much needed.

Special Poll Shows Big Anti-New Deal Vote

Continued from Page One

against the New Deal, nearly 4 to 1, with the Middle Atlantic States next and the farm belt third, voting over 3 to 2 against the Administration's policies.

"A subscribers' poll, a sort of family party held after the main affair," The Literary Digest states in its current issue, "shows many similarities to the big poll, and several interesting divergences."

"While a substantial number voted in the special test, they are only a fraction of the 1,907,681 who took part in the big poll. Nevertheless, the 'yes' and 'no' percentages in each case are about the same. The subscribers' 'no' percentage is 62.94, as compared with 62.66.

"The accuracy of polls of The Literary Digest subscribers as a cross-section of the American people has often been challenged on the ground that The Literary Digest readers represent an economic and social stratum higher than the average. Yet, the subscribers' vote is within less than one-third of 1 per cent of the percentage reflected by the country at large.

"A striking coincidence is found in the case of Maine, whose percentages in both polls are exactly the same—29.33 'yes'; 79.67 'no.'
"Subscribers voting in the negative exceed those who support the New Deal by 59,310.

"Only ten States give 'yes' majorities in this test, whereas, in the major poll, the New Deal captured twelve. The ten are Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Utah.

"Virginia and Kentucky" are the ones that slipped across the line to the negative column on the basis of subscribers' ballots. Kentucky says 'no' by the slim margin of .38 of one per cent. Utah says 'yes' by .62 of one per cent.

"On the other hand, the ten States supporting the New Deal in both polls show sharp reductions in percentages in the subscribers' vote.

"In addition to the returns in the subscribers' poll, The Literary Digest this week publishes an analysis of how forty-eight cities in all parts of the country voted in the 1935-'36 nationwide poll as compared with their vote in the 1934 poll.

"In 1934 every one of the forty-eight endorsed the New Deal. This time only fourteen are recorded as supporting it, while thirty-four are opposed. The fourteen are all in the Southern or border States, except Salt Lake City.

"New York City, which favored the New Deal in that year by 66,590 to 34,188, now casts 73,418 against and 52,318 for it.

"Chicago is opposed, by 52,561 to 28,094.

"Los Angeles says 'no' by 29,560 to 16,399.

"In San Francisco the vote is closer, 11,827 'no'; 10,512 'yes'."

The Literary Digest announces that another special New Deal poll conducted among the clergymen of the country will be undertaken at once and the findings will be released as soon as the votes are received and tallied.

Constipation

If constipation causes you Gas, Indigestion, Headaches, Bad Sleep, Pimples, Skin, get quick relief with ADLERIKA. Thorough in action yet entirely gentle and safe.

ADLERIKA
on sale at Hoffman's Cut Rate Drugs—(Advertisement.)

TIME TO 'TAKE STOCK'

It is an immemorial custom of retail business to take account of stock in January. Down comes every bolt of cloth off the shelves—every dress and pair of shoes—every can of tomatoes—every tube of tooth paste! Busy clerks check inventory. Managers figure their new merchandise requirements.

And then come the sales!

There's an idea in all this for the woman who runs her home on a business basis. No need to spend days at it. But why not take a systematic peek at the linen closet when you're upstairs? An appraising glance at the medicines and toilet requisites in the bathroom cabinet? A candid look at the furniture while you're dusting?

It's time to take stock. And when you've made a list of the things you need, sit down with this newspaper and see how economically you can buy them now—during January's stock-taking sales. You'll be delighted, as you read the advertisements, to find how far a moderate outlay will go!

In a Personal Way

INTERESTING bits of news mainly about people you know. A chronicle of the activities of the people of Bristol; their goings and comings. : : :

Events for Tonight

Dance in the Croydon Fire House, sponsored by Croydon Fire Co.

VISIT LOCALITIES

Miss Margaret Doran, Gladwyn, paid a visit over the week-end to Miss Margaret Neill, 1013 Pond street.

Mrs. William Martin and son, Roebing, N. J., will pay a visit this week to Mr. and Mrs. John McHugh, Corson street.

Paying a visit Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. William Priestley, Cedar street, were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beam and son, Philadelphia.

Miss Margaret Collier, State Teachers' College, West Chester, week-ended with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Collier, Fillmore street; Mrs. John McCrea and son Howard, Philadelphia, were visitors during last week at the Collier home. Thomas Collier, Jr., underwent an appendectomy at the private hospital of Dr. J. Fred Wagner, last week.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Mitchener, Swain street, during the week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dodson and family, Upper Darby.

Mrs. Walter Day, Stroudstown, is making a several months' stay with Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hearn, Garden street.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Granville Stephenson, Jefferson avenue, the latter part of the week were Mrs. Joseph Reitzel and daughters, Emma and Dorothy, Morrisville.

Miss Wanda Klencik, Morrisville, passed the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. William Klencik, Farragut Ave. AWAY ON VISITS

Mrs. Anna Dougherty, Cleveland street, has returned from a prolonged stay in Blackwood, N. J., with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dougherty.

Mrs. John Van Horn, Chestnut St., was a guest recently of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lodge, Morrisville.

Leland and William Shire, Spruce street, have concluded a lengthy stay in Gadsden, Alabama, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Bradford and Mr. and Mrs. George Marshall. The latter were former residents of Bristol.

Mrs. John Tomlinson, Mansion St., has been making a lengthy stay in Trenton, N. J., where she has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Blinn.

Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Morris and children, Shirley, Norman, Jr., and Carl, McKinley street, paid a visit last week to relatives in New Brunswick, N. J.

PRESIDES AT INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS
Mrs. Lewis Townsend, 804 Mansion street, as president, P. O. of A., Philadelphia, Bucks District No. 7, on Wednesday evening presided at the installation of officers at Camp 313, Cornwells. Other localities in attendance were Mrs. Harry Carter and Mrs. Warren Thompson.

HITS HEAD ON ROCK

Ernest Bowen, 1038 Chestnut street, was injured while coasting in the sixth ward yesterday. His head struck a rock, and three stitches were taken at Harriman Hospital in the head injury sustained.

BRISTOL RESIDENTS PRESENT AT A PARTY HELD IN FALLSINGTON

Surprise Mrs. Sherman Titus; Prizes Given in Games of Cards

A surprise party was given in honor of Mrs. Sherman Titus, Fallsington, Saturday evening, by a number of friends. The evening was spent playing cards, three table of pinochle and one table of "500" players being arranged. Prizes were awarded and refreshments served.

Those attending: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Dugan, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Downing, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Phipps, Mr. and Mrs. William White, William Hensler, Bristol; Miss Alverna Stork, Germantown; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Savage, Trenton, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Titus, Fallsington.

Mark 50th Anniversary Of Charter Granting

Continued from Page One

funds, and also spoke briefly of some of the highlights in its half century of service to the spiritual welfare of a growing community.

The Rev. Sargis explained at the beginning of the service that to his knowledge no church has ever conducted such a ceremony. The congregation has displayed great interest in the charter and it has attracted considerable comment. He told of the reasons why under state law it is necessary to have a charter. The preamble says:

"Be It Known, That the Subscribers, with their associates having formed a Congregation in the Village of Eddington in the Township of Bensalem, in the County of Bucks, for the purpose of worshipping Almighty God according to the faith, doctrines, discipline and usages of the Presbyterian Church, and being desirous of becoming incorporated, agreeably to the provisions of the Act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, entitled 'An Act to provide for the Incorporation and Regulation of certain Corporations' approved the twenty-ninth day of April, Anno Domini, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, do hereby declare, set forth and certify that the following are the purposes, objects, articles and conditions of their said Association for and upon which they desire to be incorporated."

"1. The name of the Corporation shall be The Eddington Presbyterian Church.

"2. The said Corporation is formed for the purpose of the worship of Almighty God according to the faith, doctrines, discipline and usages of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America.

"3. The location of the said Corporation and place wherein its business is to be transacted is the Village of Eddington, Township of Bensalem and County of Bucks.

"4. The Corporation is to have perpetual existence.

"5. The names and residences of the subscribers are as follows: Charles S. Vandegrift, Jr., Eddington; Thomas B. Simons, Cornwells; Esmonde H. Austin, Eddington; Dr. Joseph H. Schenck, 1514 Green St., Philadelphia; Harry W. Moore, 1622 Green St., Philadelphia."

Fire Guts St. Mary's Hall; 80 Led From Bldg.

Continued from Page One

some rubbish in Doane Annex, at 4.30 o'clock, it being first seen by Carl Lear, fireman at the school. It was thought the fire had gained considerable headway before discovery, and the flames damaged the art room, some classrooms, and ate their way to the apartment of Miss Edith Weller, principal of the school.

The dormitories in which the girls are housed, are located in this building, and the students, 60 of them being on the premises at the time, were led to safety in the manner in which they usually conduct their fire drills. The teachers' rooms are also located in this structure.

The fire, a three-alarm one, attracted hundreds of people to the Delaware river bank, where the school is located. The entire Burlington Fire Department, including six companies, was called out, and the firemen remained at the scene for about two hours, being in command of John Convey, chief. Smoke filled the entire building, which is fashioned of brick.

The damage will not interfere with classes to any extent, it is stated.

Held in Shooting, Tries Suicide Leap

Continued from Page One

she was also wounded. Both were removed to the same hospital. Mrs. Croman was ready to be discharged from the institution Saturday when Troopers Strickland and Edwards, of the Doylestown State Police, went to the place to serve a warrant on her, charging her with atrocious assault and battery with intent to kill.

Nurses told her to get dressed, when she leaped from bed and ran to the balcony. Chief of Police George Kulp and his wife, of Souderton, were about to enter the hospital to visit a friend when they saw the scantily-clad woman trying to get over the rail. Meanwhile, three nurses grabbed her and took her back to her room.

Mrs. Croman will be arraigned today before Justice of the Peace W. C. Hobensack. Lewis will be able to leave the hospital this week.

State Police and County Detective Antonio Russo secured statements from the Quakertown man and woman who are confined to the Quakertown Community Hospital as a result of pistol shot wounds.

Mrs. Emma Croman, 48, widow, admitted that she shot Raymond Lewis, 29, her neighbor, with a .38-caliber pistol in his electrical shop on Thursday night, but only because of what she described as improper advances made by Lewis.

Lewis gave the police a statement that Mrs. Croman came to his shop uninvited and that she made love to him.

Lewis was shot in the back and Mrs. Croman was shot in the left chest. Wilbur Flack, of Quakertown, who tion.

was detained by police after the shooting, was released after he had been questioned.

Eight Schools in County Placed On Accredited List

Continued from Page One

schools within the commission's territory are privileged to apply for membership on its accredited list. Approval by the commission merely constitutes approval for accrediting to college, however, and failure to be accredited does not necessarily imply inefficiency on the part of a school," Dr. Grizzell stated.

"Secondary schools not accredited by the commission may be doing their particular work as efficiently as those which are accredited, but may not be eligible for the accredited list solely because their courses of study are not designed to prepare students well, or at all, for admission to college.

"In some instances also, failure of schools to apply to the commission for accrediting may be responsible for their omission from the accredited list."

All schools accredited by the commission are required to submit reports, in as much detail as deemed necessary by the chairman, at frequent intervals, and the commission serves as a clearing house for information of a professional character concerning those schools.

The following schools in Bucks County are included on the commission's accredited list for 1936:

Bristol high school, Bensalem Township high school, Doylestown high school, George School, Morrisville high school, New Hope high school, Sellersville-Perkasie high school, Quakertown high school.

CHRISTENING

The little son of Rev. and Mrs. Paul Ronge, Madison street, was christened Paul James, Sunday, in the Lutheran Church. Sponsors were Mrs. Ronge and Roy Jenks.

LOCALITES ATTEND DANCE

A group from here, who attended the dance Saturday evening, at Longacres Country Club, Lawrenceville Road, given by Delta Phi Sigma Sorority, Rider College, Trenton, N. J., included: the Misses Rita, Mary Jo and Anne McGee, Alice Keating, Marie Lippincott, Elizabeth Cummings, Dorothy Dugan, Dorothy Blair, Frances Craney, Doris Connors, and Anne Meehan, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Smith.

Messrs. Carl Foell, Charles Hendricks, Wayne Fry, Joseph Murphy, Francis Dugan, George Perkins, James Blanche, Edward Gaffney, Edward Keating, Jr., Vincent McGee and Edward McBride.

HOSPITAL CASE

"Mickey" Wiltshire, Bath street, is in Harriman Hospital, under observation.

Classified Advertising Department

Announcements

Deaths

DEUSCHLE—At Croydon, Pa., January 25, 1936, William, husband of the late Maude Dyne Deuschle. Relatives and friends are invited to the services from the funeral home of the H. S. Kus Estate, 314 Cedar St., Bristol, Tuesday, January 28, at two p. m. Interment in Greenmount Cemetery, Philadelphia.

Funeral Directors

UNDERTAKER—William L. Murphy, Est., 314 Jefferson Ave., Bristol, Pa. Phone 2417.

Automotive

Auto Accessories, Tires, Parts

USED TIRES—Tubes, batteries and rims. Joe's Tire Shop, 317 Walnut Street.

Business Service

Building and Contracting

ELECTRICAL WORK—Motors and lighting, ranges, heaters. George P. Bailey Bath Rd., Bristol. Dial 7125.

Professional Services

VETERINARIAN—Dr. W. A. Haines, phone Bristol 2601. Vaccine to prevent rabies in dogs, on hand. Office treatment by appointment.

VETERINARIAN—Dr. E. J. Laing, phone Bristol 2568. Vaccine to prevent rabies in dogs, on hand. Office treatment by appointment.

Repairing and Refinishing

GENERAL WOODWORK—Hardwood flooring, stairways scraped, carefully finished. John Rymer's R. D. 1, Phone 7335.

Employment

Help Wanted—Female

MIDDLE-AGED WOMAN—For general housework, white, sleep in. Call Langhorne 109.

RELIABLE WOMAN WANTED—Local opening. Daily advance pay. Demonstrate wear, lovely lingerie, hosiery, house dresses. Experience unnecessary. Free sample offer. Send size, National Ready-to-Wear, 1123 Broadway, New York.

Help Wanted—Male

MAN—Pleasant, reliable, to deliver quantity small merchandise orders from large out of town concern to local residents, nearby towns also. Can do in spare time. 25c per package. Address Delivery Manager, 600 Cox Bldg., Rochester, N. Y.

Merchandise

Wearing Apparel

CLOSE-OUT SALE—Coats and frocks, ready to wear. At sacrifice. Steinberg's, 213 Mill street.

Rooms and Board

Rooms without Board

FURNISHED ROOMS—Two, $3 and $4. Phone 3236.

Real Estate for Rent

Apartments and Flats

FURNISHED APARTMENT—4 rooms and bath, electricity included. 607 Radcliffe street.

Houses for Rent

LAING'S GARDENS—6 room house and bath, all modern conveniences, garage. $25 month, available 15th. Phone 2568.

LEGAL

ESTATE NOTICE

Estate of Gertrude M. Spring, late of the Borough of Bristol, Pa., deceased.

Letters of administration, c. t. a., having been granted to the undersigned, all persons indebted to said estate are notified to make settlement, and all having legal claims against same are requested to present them promptly in proper form for settlement to

LOUIS C. SPRING,

Administrator, c. t. a.,
800 Radcliffe Street,
Bristol, Pa.

HOWARD I. JAMES,

Attorney,
Bristol, Pa. 1-13-6tow

ESTATE NOTICE

Estate of James E. White, late of the Borough of Bristol, Pa., deceased.

Letters of administration having been granted to the undersigned, all persons indebted to said estate are notified to make settlement, and all having legal claims against same are requested to present them promptly in proper form for settlement to

LIZZIE E. KING,

Administratrix,
242 Walnut Street,
Bristol, Pa.

HORACE N. DAVIS,

Attorney,
Bristol, Pa. 1-13-6tow

EASY WAY TO RENT APARTMENTS

Courier classified ads are renting many apartments in and about Bristol.

A. Tomesani, Mill street, inserted a small classified ad, and rented his apartment. He received eight prospects in reply to one advertisement.

Winter Sports Costumes Attractive

Skiing Togs Feature Combination of Brightly Colored Sweaters With Slacks of Darker Shades

Ready for tobogganing

Marian Marsh

By SUSAN BARDEN

International Illustrated News Writer
HOLLYWOOD—Snow, wind and ice no longer bring terror as they used to to the hearts of our ancestors.

Humanity has marched on and we greet the winter months with high plans of getting in our skating and skiing. Especially is the appetite whetted for these sports after seeing the new skiing costumes that have been shown for this season.

The three costumes shown in the pictures are a marvelous combination of style and practicality. The lines of the wearers look grand and the materials keep her warm as toast.

Marian Marsh wears woolly, dark green trousers with a swank white heavy knitted turtle neck sweater which matches her cap, gloves and socks.

Since green in this particular dark green shade is a favorite in skiing outfits, Sally O'Neil has also chosen it as the color she likes best against the snowy background.

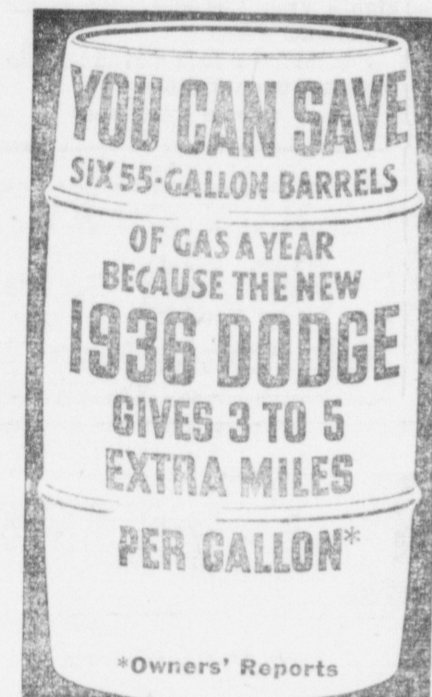

Her corduroy slacks are green and the sweater is heavy knitted wool of white, green and red. The gauntlet mittens and socks are matching the colors shown in the sweater. A green skull cap completes the ensemble.

When Marian Marsh goes in for tobogganing she includes with her outfit a heavy wool short coat of the mackintosh type. The stripes are of green and red against a white background.

The large pockets make it possible to carry cigarettes, compact and lipstick without fear of losing them in the downhill ride. The upper pockets are very handy to keep the hands extra warm while waiting about for her try at the snow runs. The coat is gay and helpful to her skiing costume.

With togs like these even the rank amateur would take real joy in learning to be a daring winter sports enthusiast.

Just Phone 2511

Percy G. Ford

1776 FARRAGUT AVENUE, BRISTOL

For Detailed Information

BUSINESS

FUNERAL DIRECTOR

No Charge for Use of Funeral Home

HARVEY S. RUE EST.

FUNERAL DIRECTORS

314 CEDAR ST. PHONE 617

Robert C. Ruehl, Suc.

PHILA. EXPRESS

DAILY TRIPS

FARRUGGIO'S EXPRESS

901 MANSION ST. DIAL 2953

Philadelphia: 7 N. Front St.

Phone Market 3548

VACUUM BRUSHES

All Kinds of

Vacuum Brushes Refilled With New

Bristles, Reclanned,

Made Like New 75c

WM. HEINECKE

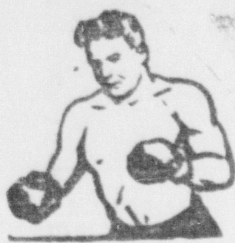

Brush Mfr., 20 Edgely Ave., Edgely

Bristol R. D. 1

Radio Patrol

EDDIE SULLIVAN and CHARLIE SCHMIDT

Baseball, Football, Basketball, Boxing, Bowling and Other Sporting Events Are Featured Daily For The Local Follower and Lover of Sport

NEW PLAYERS TO APPEAR IN GAMES TONIGHT

New faces will be seen on the various teams of the Bristol Basketball League as the second-half race gets under way tonight, on the Italian Mutual Aid floor. In the opening game the Hibernians will meet the Moose while in the second encounter the Young Men's Association will play the first-half champions, Odd Fellows.

The new players on the clubs will not be signed until before the games. Marty Fallon, manager of the Hibernians, states that he has Vaughn Donnelly and Joie Matlack. Donnelly will be the center of the championship Hibernian team of two seasons' back. Matlack is from Trenton. Fallon has also signed Gige Dougherty and another player who formerly played with Colgate College and is now residing in Bristol.

If any manager of the Bristol teams is fortunate in getting Butch DeBoskey it will be Noy McGinley of the Moose. McGinley has already stated that he has the Trenton shooting ace and pivot star signed up along with Ernie Birchenough. McGinley is counting on putting the second-half in the bag early.

The Y. M. A. outfit has signed Whitey Pitton and Allen Barcalow, both of Trenton. Barcalow captained the undefeated Trenton High team in 1935. Pitton is well known for his prowess on the court and baseball diamond. No word has been received as to whom the Odd Fellows will sign and many fans feel that Manager George Hermann will stick to his winning combination.

The first game will begin at eight o'clock, sharp.

AL GORDON KILLED IN SPECTACULAR CRASH

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—(INS)—He cheated death 19 times, but the 20th time death cheated him.

And today, Al Gordon, veteran race driver, lies dead while his mechanic, W. E. "Spider" Matlock, motion picture stunt man, is critically injured as the result of a spectacular crash here.

As 15,000 race fans stared horrified, Gordon plunged to death over an embankment in the 126th lap of a 200-lap race at Ascot Speedway yesterday. Horribly mangled, the men were taken from the wrecked car which had dropped out of sight of the spectators, among which were Gordon's wife and two sons.

"Reckless Rex" Mays of Riverside, Cal., won the contest in 1:37:36.6, a quarter lap ahead of Lou Meyers. Floyd Roberts finished third, Bill Cummings fourth, and Chet Gardner, fifth.

Gordon's crash came only a few laps after he miraculously escaped death when a tire blew out and sent him into a spin. He was trying to make up the lost time when the tragedy occurred.

The 34-year-old driver is well known among fans from coast to coast. In his record are 19 serious crack-ups, three of them at Indianapolis.

Biting Cold Will Continue Tuesday, Is The Forecast

Continued from Page One

fair weather for tomorrow in most sections of the state.

The mercury was two degrees above zero this morning in the central part of the state with the outlook clear and cold. The temperature dropped from 21 degrees above zero during the night.

The eastern section was slightly warmer with a low of 9 degrees above zero reported.

A one inch snowfall added to icy highways and streets, causing many falls, and traffic accidents.

Fair and colder tonight, says the weather forecast.

Another blizzard threatened last night and this morning, but the storm was of short duration. The temperature, however, began falling this morning at six o'clock. The mercury throughout the night stood at about 20 and then at six o'clock this morning began going down. In the first three hours the temperature had fallen eight degrees and the prospect was for a further drop later today.

The ice in the Delaware river tightened Saturday and is fast from shore to shore. Navigation has been suspended for several days.

The Water Department, this morning, was searching for a broken main under Pond street, between Penn and Franklin streets. The men working on the break faced a biting cold wind. Snow was driven into their faces by the wind and working conditions were extremely bad.

COMING EVENTS

Organizations whose announcements are printed in this column can reciprocate by having all printing in connection with announced events done by the publishers of this paper.

Jan. 28—8 p. m., Card party in St. Ann's Club, 505 Wood street, benefit of St. Ann's A. A.

Jan. 30—Leap Year reception and banquet of Bethel A. M. E. Church, speaker, Hon. John M. Marquess, in St. James's parish house.

President's birthday ball in St. Mark's school hall.

Jan. 31—Bingo and card party at Croydon School, sponsored by Mothers' and Fathers' Association.

Feb. 1—Annual turkey supper in Cornwells M. E. Church, 5 to 8 p. m., sponsored by Ladies' Aid. Penny bingo party in Newport Road

Chapel basement, sponsored by Ladies' Aid.

February 3—Card party by Shepherd's Delight Lodge in F. P. A. Hall.

Feb. 6—Card and "radio" party given by Mother's Guild of St. James's Church in the parish house, 8.30 p. m.

Feb. 8—Bake sale by King's Daughters in Weik's store, Mill street.

Feb. 11—Cadet Booster Association card party in the Bracken Post home.

Feb. 12—Card party given by Division No. 1, A. O. H., in A. O. H. Hall, 8.30 p. m.

Feb. 13—Fourth annual Valentine dance, benefit of St. Ann's Church, at St. Ann's auditorium, 9 until 7 Orchestra. Hot roast beef supper given by Gleasons Bible Class, Union Church, Edgely.

Feb. 14—Covered dish supper in Grace Episcopal Church parish house, Hulmeville.

Feb. 15—17th annual chicken supper sponsored by Cornwells Fire Company, February 22—

Martha Washington hot dinner in dining hall of the Bristol M. E. Church at 5.30. Baskets served at five o'clock.

Mar. 14—St. Patrick's supper by King's Daughters.

Mar. 24, 25, 26, 27—Courier's annual cooking school in lecture room of the Bristol M. E. Church, Mulberry and Wilson streets, beginning at 8 p. m.

VOLUNTEER TRAFFIC COP

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(INS)—Deputy sheriffs were startled when they were summoned by telephone to come down to an intersection near San Antonio and take over control of traffic from a stylishly dressed, revolver-waving young woman. The deputies got there too late, but they were assured by motorists that the woman had brandished the gun and forced them to turn into side roads. She was described as being about 20, pretty, stylishly gowned with the exception of the revolver holster.

Honor Guest at a Session Of Fourth Ward Social Club

Mrs. Charles Allen, Bordentown, N. J., was guest of honor at a roast beef dinner, given by Fourth Ward Social Club, Saturday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Gannon, 922 Jefferson avenue. Attendants were club members and their husbands.

The list was inclusive of: Mrs. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Crosby, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mulhearn, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Harmon, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kornstedt, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dugan, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Scheffey, and Mr. and Mrs. Gannon.

IMPROVING
James Fogarty, Croydon Manor, is improving at Harriman Hospital.

HAS MINOR OPERATION

A minor operation was performed upon Mrs. Robert McCuen, Fergusonville, at Harriman Hospital, Friday.

NEW YORK.—(INS)—All her life Mrs. Katherine Thraves Maxwell wanted to have her first baby born in Virginia. But just before the child was born, she swore in court here, her husband forced her to leave Virginia and come to Manhattan. For that reason she asked Supreme Court Justice Philip J. McCook to grant her a separation from George L. Maxwell, member of the New York Stock Exchange.

HULMEVILLE

The regular monthly meeting night of the William Penn Fire Company has been changed from the first Friday to the last Tuesday. The next session will be held tomorrow evening in the fire station, and a large attendance is hoped for.

Three people were received into membership at the morning service in Neshaminy M. E. Church, yesterday. They are: Mrs. J. R. Worrall, Gladys and John Worrall, Jr.

A guest yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. John Egly was their granddaughter, Miss Jane Buckley, Torresdale.

A lengthy visit is being paid by Miss Laura Illick, Bangor, at the residence of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Helen Illick, Mr. and Mrs. William Kelley, Providence, Md., week-ended with Mr. and Mrs. C. Wesley Haefner. Mrs. Kelley remained for a week's visit.

Childhood of Edward VIII Struck Down Very Early

Continued from Page One

one reached forward and tickled the ribs of those in front. Sudden squirms, gasps, wriggles: Princess Mary coronet fell to the floor and, blushing violently, she retrieved it.

Abashed by the unexpected faux pas, the back seat was decorum itself until the return to Buckingham palace was under way. Then, tired of the crowd, the other two placed little Prince George on the floor and rode back in comfort.

"David" was back at Osborne within the month to find that much had changed for him. It was a "point of honor" with him that he was to be granted no precedence, but his new status produced an intangible but unmistakable effect upon those he previously had known so well; it set him apart and, in time, he came to accept this with resignation. Here was a boy, you see, who overnight could become their King.

Graduating with distinction, Wales entered the royal naval school at Dartmouth in 1909, innured now to the role he must play—always on parade before the world.

Years later, when asked what he desired most, he replied quickly—very quickly:

"Two full days absolutely alone and to myself."

But, at Dartmouth, the new attitude of respect, rather than intimacy, at least served one useful purpose. It gave him the spiritual elbow-room to become a student of human nature, to develop an understanding of his fellow beings that made for depth and tolerance and the "human touch" that, among monarchs, seems to be his alone.

But then, as now, he was highly sensitive and lived always in horror of seeming ridiculous.

The human touch and his diffidence had some interesting effects when he went "up" to Oxford in 1912, the former producing a fellowship with his classmates that alarmed some of the royal court. They feared that, to the formal rigidity of the continental monarchies, the Prince of Wales would appear to be "too Democratic" for the prestige of the crown.

But popularity had its drawbacks, too, at least from the Prince's standpoint. There was, for example, the dinner he attended with classmates who, instead of accepting him for what he wished to be, persisted in hailing him for what he was. They cheered him in the name of the crown, called on him for a speech.

Badly fussed, he looked at them for a long moment and, just a shade irritably, said:

"I wish you chaps wouldn't make such a fuss."

Then, taking a fresh grasp upon his knife and fork, he went on with his meal. It probably struck him that, compatible with sound taste, it was the only social and neighborly and sensible thing to do.

Only a short time before, he met a deputation of Welsh bishops, calling to present felicitations, with the poise of a Gladstone. Said he, in response to their congratulations upon his investiture of his great title at Cardiff, Wales, not long before:

"I shall pray to God to make me worthy of being the Prince of Wales."

Brave, ringing words for a boy of 17 and their stark sincerity was impressive. Even then, he believed with utter completeness in the obligation he owed for having been born into royalty and, in days to come, the effect was heightened. The world was beginning to move faster now and, perforce, he quickened his life to match the pace.

Before 1912 was over, he had taken a training cruise on the Hindustan as a lowly midshipman, there being the anecdote—not altogether credible, but diverting—of the lieutenant who found him in the ward room (where he didn't belong) a few minutes after he came aboard. The lieutenant, not recognizing him, roughly berated the royal heir, who meekly replied:

"I'm sorry, sir. I didn't know. The captain told me to wait here."

In the same year, he was sent in-cognito to France, the sympathetic but temperamentally opposed neighbor, ostensibly to complete his education but actually as the good-will emissary the whole world was to come to know in later years. He visited the French Fleet at Toulon, paid diplomatic calls upon those of lofty estate and once attended a dance at the Marquis de Breteuil's—but not to dance. He hadn't yet savored of the joys of terpsichore in those days, an activity that was to become a passion with him. But that was years later. Now, he was just a very solemn boy.

France, Germany and nearby countries were on his itinerary of "education" the following year. He paid his respects to his father's cousin, the Kaiser; met Count Zeppelin and almost got a practice ride in the fighting blimp, the Z-4. They said that bad weather made this impracticable, but later allowed him to view a Zeppelin flight from the ground.

Only a short time later, millions of his subjects were viewing Zeppelin flights over England with downright panic and worse.

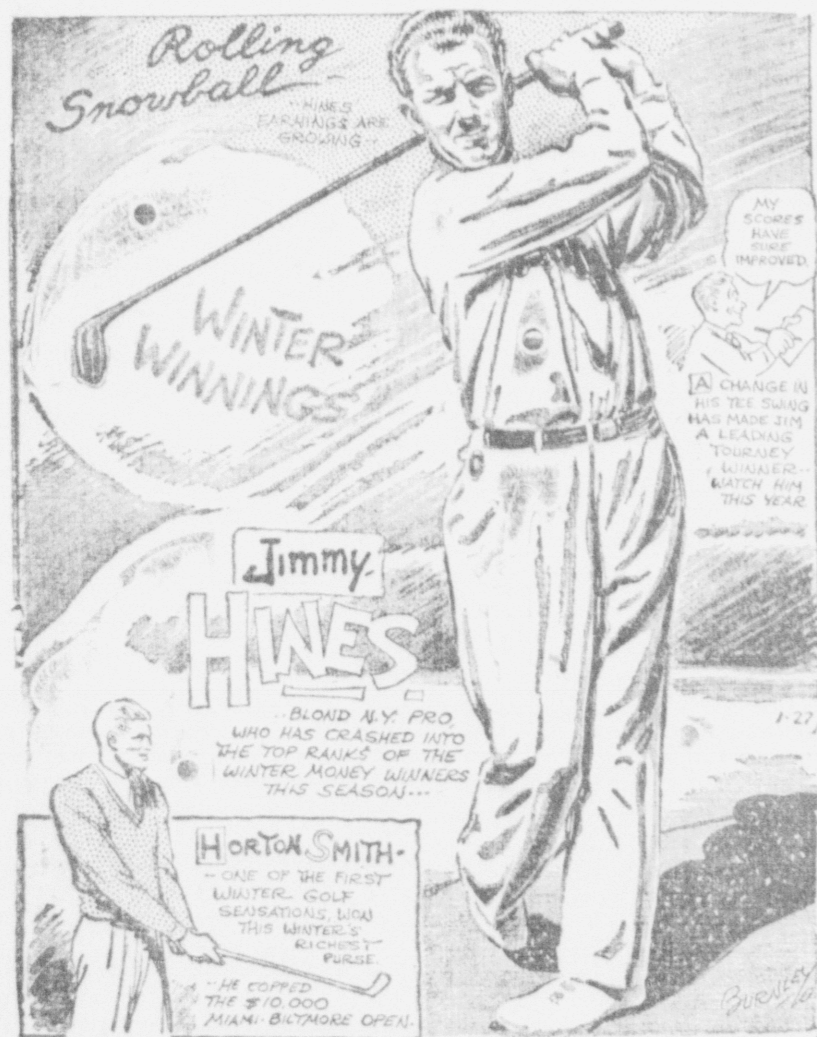

For this was 1913 and the world was tottering upon madness.

(To be continued)

NUT COAL
$9.50 C.O.D.
Martin's, Phone 2244

Winter Winners

By BURNLEY

A comparative newcomer to the sport headlines, Jimmy Hines, Long Island pro, has been one of the outstanding competitors on the winter golf circuit this season.

Mister Hines is a husky, good-looking fellow with a likeable personality, and he has been knocking at the door of golf stardom for several years, only to be sidetracked temporarily by a faulty tee swing.

Since correcting this flaw in his links armor, the blond giant from Long Island has been a major factor in all the money tournaments. Hines captured the P. G. A. medal, reached the semi-final round in the pro title tourney, won the Long Island, Glens Falls and other minor opens before his sensational triumphs in the California tournaments recently.

Another towering blond links ace, Horton Smith, youthful veteran who was one of the first big winter winners, has made a grand comeback. Horton took the biggest purse of the season when he led a formidable field to the tape in the $10,000 Miami-Biltmore Open last month.

Hines and Smith are both tall fellows, and if nothing else, their recent successes should dispel the idea that stocky, short chaps like Sarazen and Junyan have a monopoly on golfing talent.

(Copyright, 1936, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

By mild ripe tobacco we mean just this—

FIRST—ripened in the sunshine... and picked leaf by leaf from the right part of the stalk when fully ripe.

THEN—each day's picking cured right by the farmer... at the right time and in the right way... no "splotching" or brittleness, but every leaf of good color and flavor.

FINALLY—bought in the open market... re-dried for storage... then packed in wooden hogsheads to age and mellow for two years or more until free from harshness and bitterness.

That's what we mean by mild, ripe tobacco. And that's the kind of tobacco we use to give Chesterfields their milder, better taste.

Hogsheads of leaf tobacco "aging" for two years in storage warehouses.

Picking leaf tobacco in the "Bright" tobacco fields of Virginia and the Carolinas.

Type of barn used for "flue-curing" leaf tobacco.

Outstanding
... for mildness
... for better taste